Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-7, drawn to the subcombination of a holder, classified in class 248, subclass 95.
- II. Claims 8-14, drawn to a combination of a container, classified in class 220, subclass 495.06.
- III. Claims 15-17, drawn to a method of use, classified in class 29, subclass 428.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions (I and II) and III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product. See MPEP § 806.05(h). In the instant case, the product can be used such that the locking member is never moved into the locking position.

Inventions II and I are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination claim 8 doesn't require the locking member having a bag-retaining notch. The subcombination has separate utility such as a bag holder on an open frame which is not considered a container or receptacle.

Art Unit: 3781

The examiner has required restriction between combination and subcombination inventions. Where applicant elects a subcombination, and claims thereto are subsequently found allowable, any claim(s) depending from or otherwise requiring all the limitations of the allowable subcombination will be examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. See MPEP § 821.04(a). Applicant is advised that if any claim presented in a continuation or divisional application is anticipated by, or includes all the limitations of, a claim that is allowable in the present application, such claim may be subject to provisional statutory and/or nonstatutory double patenting rejections over the claims of the instant application.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required because the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

During a telephone conversation with Mr. Bob Diehl on October 31, 2006 a provisional election was made with traverse to prosecute the invention of the holder (Group I), claims 1-7. Affirmation of this election must be made by applicant in replying to this Office action. Claims 8-17 have been withdrawn from further consideration by the examiner, 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a non-elected invention.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

Art Unit: 3781

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Powers et al. (Powers).

Powers discloses a trash container having a holder for a flexible bag defined by clasp 20, the trash container is an open top receptacle defining a frame which receives a bag, the clasp has two parts, first element 24 and second element 26, the second element defines a locking portion defining a recess adjacent to the fulcra 40 as shown in Fig. 2 and 4, the first element defines a locking member carried by the locking portion for movement between a release position disposed out of the recess and a locking position disposed in the recess (the locking member includes parts like the fulcra 38 positioned in the recess made by the fulcra 40 of the locking portion and parts like the handle end 31 and jaw end 28 positioned out of the recess, the locking member having a bag retaining notch at the jaw end defined between any two teeth. Pivot shaft (pin 34) extends across the recess of the locking portion defined by the fulcra 40. Handle tab (handle end 31) is accessible.

Claims 1, 3 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Clark et al. (Clark).

Clark discloses a bag holder having a locking portion with a recess (the downwardly facing recess in plastic connector (22, 22A)) and a locking member with a bag receiving notch

Art Unit: 3781

(the upwardly facing notch in clamp (44, 44A)). Handle tab (locking bar (45, 45A)) is accessible.

Claim 6 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
